

Caretakers Appointed For Open Air Rink

Relief Cases Predominant;
Seventh Street Residents
To Be Given Consideration.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening. Present, Mayor Antrobus, Councilors Abousaffy, Atkinson, Ford and Jenkins.

Sam Malanekuk was present and asked for the position of caretaker of the open-air rink. Later in the evening Fred Traska made his appearance and asked council for work of any kind, as he was unemployed and did not wish to go on relief. After consultation it was decided to split the work as caretaker of the open-air rink between them. Constable Antle was authorized to put the men to work immediately repairing the buildings and preparing the ground for flooding.

Mrs. Deputat asked for a winter overcoat, wood and coal. Wood and coal were granted. Enquiry will be made regarding the overcoat.

Adolf Leier asked council that his taxes be credited to the amount of rent arrears owed him by Norman Plante, relief recipient. Letter was filed.

A letter of application re secretary-treasurer's position was received from Miss Esther Neilson. Letter filed.

A petition was received by residents of Seventh street, namely J. Cousins, G. Derbyshire, H. Willetts, and I. Neilson, that a road be built alongside their lots to enable trucks and cars to gain entrance into their premises. Failing this that council take steps to open the road right-of-way at present fenced in by a gardener. Works and Property committee was authorized to investigate with power to act.

A letter was received from Contractor J. S. D'Appolonia stating that due to the off season in the building trade it would be necessary to lay off a number of men. This could be avoided to a large extent if council could make up an estimate of the number of concrete pipes required for next year and place the order now, as it would put to work a number of these men. Council will acknowledge letter and state that while it cannot at the present time give an estimate of the number of pipes required, it was certain they would need many pipes and it was in order for Contractor D'Appolonia to place a supply in readiness.

The relief applications to the provincial government re Norman Plante, Mrs. Jane and Fred Traska, failed to meet approval and they were sent back to council. A further endeavor will be made by council to have the senior government approve these relief applications.

A letter will be sent to the Department of Public Welfare regarding an Old Men's Home. Letters regarding homes received from the Salvation Army and Macleod municipal hospital were tabled.

The request for coal by Mrs. Bakaj was granted.

A letter from the Glenmore Water Supply, Calgary, was received re the Coleman filter system. Following discussion the letter was filed.

Meeting adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

TONY LISKA SENT TO HIGHER COURT

Tony Liska, charged with incest, was further remanded on Friday morning when appearing before Fred Antrobus, J.P., and was sent back to Lethbridge Jail until March, when he will appear before a higher court. Bail of $5,000 was set, but failing to raise the amount he was sent back to jail.

Chairman; Rev. J. R. Hague
to Deliver Main Address.

Changes in the Remembrance Day program published last week have been made during the past few days. Albert F. ## A MESSAGE

FROM
HON. J. L. HILSEY,
Minister of Finance.

"I hope there is no misunderstanding of the fact that Canada's War effort needs the financial support of every man and woman in this Dominion.

"Regular investment in War Savings Certificates provides an opportunity for the many to show how they feel about the few whose courage is winning the day for us all.

"Can any one of us forget for one moment of our waking hours what is taking place in England at this time; in London where millions count their waking hours almost as the sum of the twenty-four? No contribution that we can offer will compare with the sacrifices being made by those in the line of fire, including our own Canadian airmen, soldiers and seamen. But they need and must have all the help we can give.

"I urge all who are able to participate in this War Savings campaign to take their places without delay, and pledge their savings to the limit of their ability."

"REMEMBER! We must accomplish by voluntary action more than the enemy can do by compulsion."

Red Cross Campaign Better Than Last Year

$710 Collected Last Campaign
Still in Progress; More
Volunteers Required for Knitting and Sewing.

Executive members of Coleman branch of the Canadian Red Cross at the regular meeting on Monday evening heard that receipts to date on the Red Cross campaign showed an increase over last year. $710 has been collected with one or two canvassers still to turn in their money, besides a number of persons who have promised donations.

It is imperative that canvassers turn in their books not later than Saturday, Nov. 16, as a receipt has to be sent to headquarters.

In making her report the secretary stated she had received another supply of forms for evacuee children and also for persons desirous of tracing relatives or friends in Europe.

A letter was received from headquarters pertaining to the use of the name of the Red Cross in connection with raffles, donations, etc. No person or organization may advertise the name of the Red Cross without first gaining a permit from the local association.

Mrs. W. L. Rippon reported she had received another large supply of material, namely, airforce blue yarn, yarn for socks only, flannellette, white flannels and unbleached sheeting. Mr. Frank Abousaffy had also donated a large supply of wool, the association expressing their thanks for the donation. Mrs. Rippon asked for more volunteers in knitting and sewing. Very few ladies are attending the sewing meetings held every Tuesday afternoon in the council chamber. A number of ladies are knitting and sewing for the Red Cross in their own homes.

A discussion took place regarding the organization of a committee to foster a 100% Red Cross membership. It was pointed out the school teachers have organized and are now paying $1.00 monthly to the Red Cross. The majority of those attending the meeting felt that it would be advisable to discuss this question after the New Year, now that a campaign for raising funds is still in progress.

FIRST AID CLASSES
START ON SUNDAY

All interested in First Aid will start their season's studies on Sunday when the local branch of St. John Ambulance Association commences their winter classes. Senior men's classes will start at 1 p.m. in the high school auditorium and at 2 p.m. the ladies' class will start. Dr. C. Rose and Dr. H. G. Claxton have been appointed lecturers and next Sunday's lecture will commence at 2 p.m. Following the lecture there will be approximately one hour's practice in applying bandages, splints, etc.

Endeavor To Open Crystal Arena

Sale of Season Tickets Between
Now and Nov. 26 to Determine Whether Arena to Open or Not.

With the withdrawal of Coleman's senior hockey club from the Alberta league the spotlight falls on Coleman's coming hockey stars, junior, juvenile, midgets, Pee Wee and super Pee Wee. The only way to improve their ability is to have plenty of skating and hockey practice.

There are also those who prefer just to skate and with this in mind arrangements have been made to open the arena for the benefit of all, providing the people of Coleman want it, and will support it financially.

To this end season tickets will be sold immediately with the following concessions and subject to a tentative schedule as below: $1, school children, skating only. $2, school children, skating and hockey.

$3, adults, skating and admission to association league hockey games.

The hockey teams will be operated on a sliding scale and it is believed there are some girls who desire to play too.

If financial support is forthcoming and weather permitting there will be three months at least of skating and hockey.

Season tickets are on sale and sufficient number must be sold by Nov. 26 to cover operating costs for the season. It will be to your benefit to purchase a ticket as those who do not have one and desire rink privileges later will find a much larger proportionate cost.

If sufficient tickets are not sold the money will be returned to registered holders.

Give your youngsters your whole hearted support and the rink will be open for them this year.

Admission is tentative. Schedule of skating and hockey practice:

Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday	Sunday
3.30-5.15	5.45-7.15	2.5-5.15	5.45-7.15	3.5-5.15	5.45-7.15	10-12-10

Sunday—as arranged.

A Close Call

A car accident that might have resulted in tragedy occurred at the west end of Crows Nest Lake early Tuesday morning, when a Plymouth car, owned by Austen Fishers, of Bellevue, left the road, turned turtle, and came to rest in a shallow part of the lake with the doors and windows completely submerged and the wheels sticking out of the water.

Mr. Fisher and his two companions broke some windows and forced their way to the surface and thence to shore. They are said to have escaped with minor injuries, a thorough drenching. A wrecker pulled the car from the lake and it is now undergoing repairs.

Gladys Lees Appointed town Secretary

To Hold Position for Duration of War; Council to Discuss Details With School Board.

Last week-end the council found themselves without a town secretary. The embarrassing position came about when Ed. Bernard, secretary-treasurer, who had been scheduled to leave the position from the acting secretary-treasurer, Miss Audrey Halliwell, on Nov. 1, sent a wire to Mayor Antrobus, stating he had joined the 23rd Provost Co. C.A.E.F. and would be unable to start his duties as anticipated. Miss Halliwell's duties terminated on Oct. 31, since she had made way for Mr. Bernard.

As Miss Halliwell had already decided to enter the service of The Canadian Bank of Commerce and will leave for Toronto next week, her services as town secretary were not available.

At the regular meeting on Tuesday evening the council agreed that Miss Gladys Lees be appointed to the position of secretary. Should the school board be favorable to Miss Lees accepting the position, the salary will be determined.

Mayor Antrobus and Finance committee chairman Balloch were authorized to sign all cheques.

It will be made plain to Miss Lees and the board that she will carry on in the town's behalf only during the war, and that upon Mr. Bernard's return he will resume the position.

Red Cross To Benefit At Theatre To-Night

D. H. Tomlinson, Alberta
Commissioner, to Speak; Entire
Proceeds to Red Cross; Tickets

As a result of the patriotic spirit of Wm. Cole and his staff in showing films and donating their services in behalf of Coleman branch of the Canadian Red Cross, hundreds of theatre patrons in town and district are expected to attend the two shows being staged tonight at 7 and 9 o'clock. The entire proceeds are being turned over to local Red Cross officials.

A feature of the theatre program will be the appearance of D. H. Tomlinson, Alberta Red Cross Commissioner. He will give an address on Red Cross work in the Great War No. 2.

Mr. Cole has arranged a double program which should meet with civic approval. Young and old Edith Fellows is the star in "Pride of the Blue Grass," a racehorse story with its setting in the old South, Kentucky. The other feature is "Kid Nightingale," starring John Wayne. This picture centres around the boxing ring and many thrilling scenes are staged.

The local branch will have two attendants at the theatre distributing literature on the Red Cross. There will be a small box into which anyone desirous of giving more money may place their donations.

Miss A. Yull's Junior Red Cross members have been enthusiastically selling theatre tickets throughout town and report success in recognition of their present and past services it was unanimously agreed to award them 10% of the proceeds from tickets sold by them.

School authorities advised the Red Cross that school on Thursday would close at 3 p.m. in order that the children could attend the matinee.

Trends In Tourist Traffic

Official figures are now being published making it possible to get some appreciation of the trends of tourist traffic from the United States into Canada and to gain some idea of the influence exerted by the war on this important industry.

Entirely the result of regulations promulgated by the Dominion government, the very heavy flow of Canadian pleasure seekers into the United States during the holiday months of the past three or four years was cut to a mere trickle during the summer just past. This is a matter of gratification, since this marked reduction in the southward movement of Canadians has had the intended effect of retaining in this country large sums of money which are required for the prosecution of Canada's war effort in some form or another.

Unfortunately, on the other hand, the inward flow of American tourist traffic over the Dominion as a whole, is not as great as might have been expected under existing conditions. During the past few years American tourist traffic into this country has been increasing substantially year by year until it had assumed the rank of one of the foremost industries of Canada.

There were a number of reasons why the annual increment of this traffic should not only have been maintained but should have shown a material increase, because of the war. In the first place, holiday seekers in the United States were practically confined to this continent for their pleasure trips this summer on account of the war and in the second place their dollar being worth $1.30 in this country would have given them a cheaper holiday than they could enjoy by remaining in their own country. These two factors alone should have resulted in a record north-bound traffic across the international boundary during the summer just past.

A Serious Slump

Instead of this anticipated increase, however, the reverse was the case, at any rate during the early part of the summer. The October issue of the National Revenue Review, issued by the Minister of National Revenue reveals that in July, the latest month for which figures for the entire Dominion were reported at that time, only 452,307 American automobiles entered Canada under short or long term permits as compared with 764,408 in the corresponding month of last year, a decline of nearly 41 per cent.

Unfortunately, figures for August for the entire Dominion were not apparently compiled at that time but in the same issue of the National Revenue Review, it is reported that in August, 1940, 94,526 cars originating in the U.S.A. passed through the Port of Niagara Falls, compared with 109,079 in August, 1939, a decrease of 14,553 cars or over 13 per cent. Since this is one of the heaviest ports of entry in the Dominion, it can be assumed that for the entire country some improvement was shown in August as compared with the previous month, but still a substantial loss.

In another article in the same issue of the National Revenue Review figures are given showing a substantial increase in the number of visitors to Canada's national parks in the Rockies and prairie provinces during the five months of this year ending Aug. 31. In most cases the figures combine Canadian and "foreign" visitors, but the mountain parks of Banff, Jasper, Waterton Lakes, Kootenay and Yoho were visited during the period by 110,874 "foreign" visitors compared with 90,365 last year, a gain of more than 22 per cent. This increased movement of visitors from other countries to the parks is attributed in part by the Review to "the opening to traffic this year of the Big Bend and Banff-Jasper Highways and to the fact that many Americans who have been accustomed to holidaying in Europe spent their vacations in the Canadian Rockies."

Good Roads Important

The importance of good roads in fostering this "golden" stream into Canada is further emphasized by the statement accompanying the National Revenue Review's announcement that "An all time record was created at Jasper National Park, when the attendance (for the five month period) reached 80,304, an increase of 60,668 or more than 200 per cent. "This astounding increase," declares the publication, "was largely due to the opening of the new Banff-Jasper Highway, which shortens the distance between the resorts of Banff and Jasper to 186 miles from the 511-mile drive required by previous motor routes."

The foregoing facts and figures, taken in combination, reveal two or three important things which might profitably be noted for future guidance. One of these is evidence that publicity undertaken by the federal government in the United States this summer to counteract adverse propaganda across the line was too late to reassure Americans that they could safely visit this country while at war without being penalized in one or more of several forms. This propaganda on the other side of the international boundary bore beneficial fruit during July, one of the best of the holiday months and had not been fully stemmed by the end of August, by which time the season was near its close.

Another is the importance of the construction and maintenance of good roads if Canada is not only to lose this vital and important industry, but is to reap increasing annual benefits from it.

Great Help To Britain

Dutch Fliers Get Valuable Information About Nazi Moves

Of great assistance to the British intelligence service in learning the facts about the German invasion fleet are the Dutch fliers. At the dead of night they fly to their own country, land at a secret airfield, then crawl around the coast for information about enemy activities. Their knowledge of the German language has made it fairly easy for them to supply invaluable facts to the British bombing squadrons which recently wrecked the Nazi invasion fleet even before it had a chance to get out of the French channel ports.

We can hardly restrain our impatience to hear Hitler explain how the Japanese came to be a "pure Aryan" race.

True Frenchman Put One Over On Nazi Guards

While a Nazi guard stood by, a group of French officers placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Arch of Triumph in Paris. For the next three days thousands of French people visited the Tomb. The Nazis thought it strange that so many should come so suddenly, but dismissed the occurrence as a coincidence.

On the third day a member of the Nazi Gestapo examined the wreath. He found a card, which said: "Death to Hitler! Down with the scoundrel! France will live!"

The wreath was removed at once. Ever since, the Gestapo has been trying to find the true Frenchmen, who placed the wreath on the Tomb. Windsor Star.

People Of Old London

Editorial In Daily Sketch Pays Tribute To Their Fortitude

The London Daily Sketch in a recent editorial voices morningly the debt of the rest of the Empire to the people of London. It says: "To-day, in quietness and humility let us give thankful praise to the people of London. For they are enduring the fire and the torture for us. Upon their minds and bodies they are bearing such assaults as no citizen in these islands has borne before."

"This they are doing freely, faithfully, with sublime fortitude; that we may live our way of life; that the dignity of man and freedom and tolerance, and the good, sweet, simple things shall not perish from the earth."

"In one heroic classing brotherhood, rich, poor, young, old, they are facing the motion blast from the skies with a spirit which no intimidation can assail nor horror overcome. Their indomitable will to suffer even unto death before bowing to any force or tyranny is our shield."

"They will not falter."

"There is a heroism which outlasts the forces of evil, which outlasts time itself."

"There is no courage of the heat and temper of battle. These ordinary people have not been prepared in long months of discipline."

"It is the self-discipline of the strong in spirit and the brave in heart."

"And upon this immovable rock will the weapons of evil finally be shattered."

"Think, then, of our brothers and sisters of the City of London to-day. Give them the nourishment of your love and thankfulness, for spirit will strengthen spirit and your prayers and thoughts will be as a buckler around them."

"They offer their lives as a ransom for our liberty."

"Let us be worthy of this gift."

Catalogued As New Art

Work Of Farm Woman Has Been Recognized In New York

In 1939 Anna Mary Robertson Moses, then 76, exhibited strawberry jam and paintings at the Cambridge, N.Y., fair.

"For my strawberries," as Miss Moses puts it, "I won a blue ribbon. For my paintings I got the 'razzberry'." To-day 34 products of her brush hang in New York exhibits galleries, bringing in as high as $200 apiece.

Discovered last year, New York called her work Americana and gave it a prominent place in the museum of modern art. It was catalogued as primitive American art pictures of farm turkeys headed for Thanksgiving slaughter, maple sugar in the making and covered bridges afloat.

The slender grey-haired farm woman took to art to rest her back. Widowed 13 years ago, she carried on her husband's farm at Eagle Bridge until her back began to hurt. She was forced to rest and while resting she "just had to do something."

Beaverboard substituted for canvas. The attic provided the frames. A mail order service provided the paints and Mrs. Moses the imagination.

With all the lady of Eagle Bridge is unimpressed. She's not going to New York. She's never been before and she's not going now, paintings or no paintings.

Lasted For Twenty Years

Death Of One Player Brought Chess Match To End

A chess match which lasted for 20 years has been brought to an end by the death of Mrs. Annie Paton, of Rhyl, England. She was 93. Since 1920 Mrs. Paton had corresponded weekly with her 50-year-old nephew, Hugh Paton Harrison, of Hartlepool. And their boards have shown one move a week, year in, year out. The matches were always hotly contested; but Mrs. Paton invariably won in the end. "So I should," she used to remark. "I've been playing chess 40 years longer than Hugh has."

London's monuments are the work of the ages. Art lovers the world over will never forgive the Nazis for destroying these irreplaceable gems.

Chivalry In The Air

Some German Flyers Are Decent Enough To Observe It

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal says: "Take it by and large there was precious little chivalry even in the last war. There certainly seems to be much less in this one. Yet the airmen, who had their strong code of honor last time, still strive to maintain some semblance of the old tradition. For instance, if there is a dog-fight in the air, and one fighter finds his machine hors de combat, he intimates his condition, and his intention to get down to earth and land, by making his machine do a tail-waggle."

Only a short time ago, after a brief, bright, and brotherly scrap over the South Coast, a German fighter gave this signal, and came down. The R.A.F. opponent promptly holding fire to let him land safely if he could. On the other, if an R.A.F. fighter in the course of a dog-fight makes his enemy crash, or shoots down a bomber, supposing that circumstances permit, he passionately flies over the wreckage and salutes its dead with a wing-roll.

How far German airmen reciprocate these courtesies of the empty arena it is hard to say. Such niceties would scarcely appeal to baby-killers. Yet there are some who do. Even in this mechanized epoch, the ghost of ancient chivalry dies hard.

History Being Repeated

Sermon Preached Century Ago Might Apply To Present Time

Be not deceived—there will be no wall of adamant, no triple flaming sword to deny of those lawless assassins that have murdered and pillaged in every other land. Heaven has made with us no covenant that there should he joy and peace here, and wailing and lamentation in all the world besides. I would counsel you to put on a mind patient, suffering, and noble acting; whatever energies there are in the human mind, you will want them all; every man will be tried to the very springs of his heart, and those times are at hand which will show us all as we really are, with the genuine stamp and value, be it much or be it little, which Nature has impressed upon every living soul.—Rev. ### A Scots Special

When a C.N.R. freight recently pulled into Kamnask from Dauphin, Man., it was discovered that the entire train crew were "Mac's" and that all of them started life in Glen Garry, Ont. McKee and McNabb were on duty in the locomotive cab; McKee was conductor and in the caboose were also McKee, McLean and McDougall. A real Scots special.

Where Traitors Triumph

Belgian Workers Have Hard Time Under Task Masters

Belgian workers have now the choice between the most wretched and unassisted unemployment, or working for the Nazis against their own country. If they choose the latter course, they have 25 per cent. of their miserable wages deducted for the building up of a system of social insurance after the Nazi model. Their own organizations are broken up, their best leaders exiled or condemned to silence. All rights and liberties have gone to be replaced by an authoritarian discipline under the foreign occupation.

A whole nation lives in constant fear of spies and informers, while traitors triumph under the protection of the invader.—By Max Buset, Belgian Labor Leader.

Not What He Expected

R.A.F. fighter pilots stationed in Scotland are laughing over a colleague who recently went to London on leave and bought a motor-car. He arranged for it to be carried on the train by which he was returning to his airbase. On arrival at the station he summoned a porter to open the van so that he could drive his car away. The door was opened—and out walked a horse.

An Artist Abroad

Lieutenant From Vancouver Makes Humorous Sketches Depicting Life In England

Unofficial artist at Canadian G.H.Q. in England is Second Lieutenant Sedley Sweeney from North Vancouver, a graduate of the Royal Military College, whose humorous sketches decorate the walls of the officers' mess.

Mr. Sweeney has turned out a sequence of sketches illustrating the trials and tribulations of night driving for Canadians in the English wilderness under wartime blackout conditions.

The first drawing shows a camp-bound Canuck asking a yokel for directions. He continues on the road only to find—second sketch—that he has arrived at a "No Entry" road. The next scene shows the luckless Canuck at a crossroads. Direction posts point three ways, giving the mileage to each town, but the names of the townships have all been carefully obliterated.

Britain Will Lend Every Aid To Greece In Fight Against Italy

LONDON. — A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, announced that British troops had landed in Greece territory, and said that Britain will honor her pledge of aid to Italian-invaded Greece.

"The navy is there, air support is being given, military objectives in Naples have been bombed and British troops have landed in Greek territory," Mr. Alexander said.

"What we can do we will do."

"Despatches from Athens said that British liaison officer, Maj.-Gen. M. D. Gambier-Parry, arrived in Athens from Britain's middle east command at Cairo."

He said "the road to victory is beginning to define itself. Even if it proves a long road we can afford time and our enemies cannot."

The address, broadcast to the empire, for the first time officially confirmed various reports that British troops are on Greek soil but it gave no indication where they had been landed.

He expressed once more Britain's thanks for the 50 over-age United States destroyers sent to Britain in recent months in a trade for air and naval bases in the Mediterranean.

"I shall be equally thankful for any more that can be spared... the white ensign will fly at their ensign staffs in the future but many of us in our minds eye will see the Stars and Stripes still fluttering there as well."

Mr. Alexander said that no responsible official in Britain desires to underestimate the dangers which confront us."

"Not the least of these is the new and intensified threat which, following upon the defection of the French, comes from the acquisition by the enemy of naval and air bases for the attack upon our shipping by U-boats and aircraft."

"Nevertheless from some points of view I can address you to-day with an easier mind."

He said the enemy's merchant marine had to all purposes disappeared from every sea except the Baltic soon to be frozen over while a continuous flow of food and munitions comes and goes from Britain.

British and neutral military men said a decisive check or even a stalemate of Italy's campaign against Greece would smash the axis scheme for conquest of the Mediterranean.

These sources, remarking that Italy's war effort was swiftly approaching the maximum, estimated Italian troops in the field at "well over 1,000,000" or at least "70 divisions."

This figure includes units in Libya, Ethiopia, Italian and British Somaliland, and those standing on temporary peaceful frontiers in Europe and Africa.

"Italy may talk of 6,000,000 bayonets, but these are not enough," one declared. "It is quite possible she does not have modern equipment for more than those in the field now."

Should Strike Hard

Lord Chatfield Advocates Violent Blows Against Italy

LONDON. — Great Britain should "strike some violent blows against Italy now" with whatever sea and air power she can spare from the defense of the homeland, Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield urged.

"Italy's object," the former minister in a broadcast, "may be to divide our military forces and so weaken our resistance in Egypt."

"But sea and air power will be of more valuable help to Greece than a large army sent to Salonika with all that means in transport and supply."

Citing the navy's work in countering German invasion preparations, he disclosed that last Oct. 12 "nearly 1,000 shells of varying calibre were poured into Cherbourg during a bombardment lasting less than 20 minutes."

"The laws of strategy teach you," he said, "to strike your enemy's weak spot with your utmost force. Italy is the enemy's weak spot."

Lord Chatfield said he was convinced the Mediterranean fleet under Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham would be able to contain the Italian fleet, hold the Strait of Gibraltar and protect the Suez canal.

Protest Coal Importations

While Miners In Alberta Are With- out Work

Blairmore, Alta. — A petition has been sent by Blairmore local No. 18 of the United Mine Workers of America to Ottawa, asking the minister of labor to investigate a situation in the coal fields of western Canada where it is claimed some miners are working only two days a week while importation of foreign coal has increased.

A suggestion is made in the petition to take steps to curtail importation of foreign coal until the mines in the western coal fields are producing to capacity.

The local branch claims that importation of coal from the United States has increased by hundreds of thousands of tons over a corresponding period in 1939 and that the coal mines in Blairmore and Bellevue are working on short time while other mines in the district work twice as much.

Famous Canadian Artist

Arthur Henning, Artist and Writer, Dies At Home In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont. — Arthur Henning, one of the best-known Canadian artists who also was an illustrator and an author, died at the home of a sister, Mrs. Robert B. Acres, of Hamilton, he was 70.

Henning gained his greatest fame as an artist for portraying wild life and the early Canadian voyageurs. He was 60 before he began to paint with colors and his announcement last January that he was putting aside his brush shocked the Canadian art world.

Henning was an illustrator in the early part of his career. He was survived by three sisters including Mrs. E. A. Harris, formerly of Victoria, B.C., who now lives here, and two brothers.

LONDON. — Death of Princess Elizabeth, 53, niece by marriage of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, at Wilderness House, Hampton Court palace, was announced.

This picture of Hitler and Mussolini, which was flown across the Atlantic by Clipper ship, shows the two leading exponents of terrorism as they met at Brenner Pass, where they are believed to have formulated their plans for demands upon the French Vichy government and Franco of Spain.

Canadian Legion Services

Will Not Forget Fallen Comrades On Remembrance Day

OTTAWA. — Canada's soldier dead will be honoured by the nation on Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, as a result of a decision by the Secretary of State to proclaim the day a statutory holiday as usual.

An appeal to all citizens to participate in the ceremonies that will be held throughout the country, is made by Alex Walker, of Calgary, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, who announces that provincial commands and branches of the Legion have been instructed to make plans suitable to local conditions.

In spite of modified arrangements, necessitated because of the war, it is expected that thousands of citizens everywhere, and ex-service men including local detachments of the Veterans' Guard of Canada, will take part in the ceremonies.

Secret Bomb Sight

Unconfirmed Rumor That It Has Been Sent To Ottawa

WASHINGTON. — Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, told a press conference here that he knew "less and less" about the movements of the famed United States secret bomb sight.

He was questioned about suggestions reported by The New York Herald Tribune that the bomb sight had been sent to Ottawa in a shipment by air from the Sperry Gyroscope Company, manufacturers of the device.

"I have been hearing many reports of it going here or there, but personally know less and less of its movements," Hull said.

British Fleet Prepared

Ready For Large Scale Offensive In Mediterranean

LONDON. — The naval correspondent of the Press Association said that the British Mediterranean fleet is "passing from its present phase of activity to large-scale offensive."

"Our strength in that vital area is being built up as rapidly as possible," he added.

He said that the Italian invasion of Greece brought the navy "great opportunities of which, naturally, they are already availing themselves. Indeed the moment appears to be approaching when one might expect powerful moves against Italian strength."

WHEN DICTATORS MET

Turkey Warns The Axis Powers To Halt Eastern March

Turkey's guarded statement of her policy toward the Italo-Greek war contains more food for thought than the conflicting reports of battle progress from Athens and Rome.

President Inonu's statement to the Turkish parliament contained an intimation that Turkey and Russia see eye to eye in withholding action pending fuller development of German-Italian strategy. But this was coupled with a clear warning to the axis powers to avoid trespass on vital Turkish interests.

The fact that Turkey is collaborating with Britain in studying the "Italo-Greek" developments was already known. Inonu's declaration that Turkish-Russian relations "now have taken a friendly turn," however, gives the first authoritative note to Moscow's attitude. Nor can it be divorced from its context flatly declaring Turkey's strategic moves and determination to fight if her own national interests are jeopardized.

Inonu intended to convey a double message to the axis mates and to Bulgaria. His purpose was to advise them that Russia is as gravely concerned Turkey to consider any development which claims Turkey within the war orbit.

If the Italian thrust at Greece, as has seemed possible, was designed to test Turkey-Russia reaction, Inonu supplied the answer. And it is hostile to supposed axis strategic moves to carry the fight with Britain eastward.

It draws a deadline at Turkey's frontiers in Europe—a deadline backed by more than Turkey's "2,000,000 bayonets." Even without direct Russian aid to maintain that line intact, a friendly Russia backing Turkey's stand could do much to hamper the axis mates.

Germany vitally needs food and other Russian commodities, including oil, to supplement her Gallician and Roumanian sources. Supplies from the Soviet could dry up quickly, even if Russia stayed out of a Turkish axis war, and that is a possibility that Rome and Berlin must consider in weighing Inonu's words.

The Turkish leader also gave definite assurances that Turkey intends to guard her Greek associate's Macedonian flank. Bulgaria is placed on formal notice of that. If he moves under German or axis pressure to aid Italy or afford Germany a route to do so, it will be with virtual advance notice that Turkey will enter the struggle.

What is not clear, however, is at what point in the developing Italian thrust across northern Greece Turkey might deem her loss stepped upon. Turkey must regard the unhindered use of the island-studded Aegean sea as no less vital to her security and economic life than the Dardanelles. An open Aegean in control of friendly powers is no less important to Russia.

The Russo-Turkish angle on the war in Greece tends to support to some extent the rumor that the Italian attack did not have full Nazi approval. There are hints from German sources that it will be a "local" conflict, confined to Italy and the Greek-British allies. There is also frequent speculation that Hitler's recent move to safeguard Roumanian oil and other resources by sending troops into that country may have been forced upon him by knowledge of Italy's intended action against Greece. He may have figured that Italy's attack would expose Roumanian oil fields to the danger of Greek-British or Greek-British-Turkish air assault.

Plant Under Construction

Aerial Bombs Will Soon Be Produced In Canadian Factory

OTTAWA. — Production of 500-pound aerial bombs will be started next February in a huge plant now being completed "somewhere in Quebec," Munitions Minister Hoover announced.

"Normal output of the plant will be well over 100,000 bombs a year," Mr. Howe said.

"This will be the first time that aerial bombs of any kind, other than comparatively few practice bombs, have been made in a Canadian factory."

The long-range program of the munitions department will eventually embrace all sizes and types of bombs for which there is a demand. They will range in weight from 40 to 1,000 pounds and from the common high explosive bombs to aerial projectiles capable of piercing heavy armor plate.

Chicago Livestock Show

Western Stockmen Have Filled Many Entries

CHICAGO. — Prominent Canadian stockmen from three provinces—Alberta, Saskatchewan and Ontario—are among scores of livestock breeders and feeders from all parts of the continent who have filed entries for the 1940 International Livestock Exposition to be held at the Chicago stockyards Nov. 30 to Dec. 7.

A Saskatchewan Clydesdale breeder, William Fleming of Drinkwater, will exhibit in both the pure bred and gelding classes of that breed. He will show geldings in pairs and four-horse teams. Other notable Clyde exhibitors from Saskatchewan include R. and E. C. Williams and Rhys Williams, all of Melville.

The International Grain and Hay Show, in which Canadian exhibits have won consistently, the entries will close Nov. 10.

Bacon Agreement Expires, But Heavy Shipments Continue

OTTAWA. — The bacon agreement with the United Kingdom ran out Thursday, Oct. 31, but the farmer had little reason to notice it. Hog marketings are continuing at the all-time record levels of recent weeks, in the expectation that a satisfactory new agreement will be reached before Agriculture Minister James C. Gardner leaves the United Kingdom.

As far as the hog producer is concerned, the old bacon agreement became ineffective at least three weeks ago, since it takes that long for a hog to get from farm to seaboard in the form of bacon.

Nevertheless, on the government's instructions, the bacon board is continuing to take deliveries at the peak rate of the last few weeks, which is around 7,840,000 pounds a week, the price to be set later. The minimum weekly rate under the old agreement was 5,600,000 pounds, increased as the British government saw fit.

It is expected here the bacon needs of the United Kingdom in the next year will continue at about the present level. However, whether the price to be set in the new agreement will be as high as it was in the year ending is another question.

If the minimum weekly delivery for the next year is to be substantially higher than last year, some argument may be advanced for a slight reduction in price.

The Dominion government's program is to dispose of a commodity which has developed a definite surplus. Production is roughly 40 per cent. above that of a year ago, with the prospect that the average for the year will be at least 25 or 30 per cent. above last year.

Factors which will tend to maintain the present price level, highest in the world and about 40 per cent. above that in the United States, are a possible increase in domestic consumption with wartime prosperity among the wage-earning group and continued large-scale purchases by the defence services.

The average top bacon price under the United Kingdom agreement which ran out Thursday, Oct. 31, was $18.01 a hundredweight (112 pounds), compared to about $16.70 when the agreement came into effect last November.

Despite a 40 per cent. increase in marketings in the following months, the same price was maintained without variation, probably for the first time in the history of the industry.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

(From The Macleod Gazette)

HON. J. L. ILSLEY, federal minister of finance, recently stated: "I hope there is no misunderstanding of the fact that Canada's war effort needs the financial support of every man and woman in this Dominion." In reports from canvassers for war charities, and of the sale of War Savings Certificates and Stamps, there comes the information that many generous souls are doing their best, and this is particularly noticeable among people in the low wage earning brackets. But there are all too many who are not willing to sacrifice some small pleasure or luxury to help. They will sit smug and comfortable in their homes and trump up alibis why they will not give, while harassed working people in the cities of Great Britain are being bombed out of their homes and the savings of a lifetime are blasted to bits in the shape of all their household possessions. And in many cases life is snuffed out by a ruthless air raid campaign. 14,000 civilians had been killed and 20,000 seriously wounded since the first big attack eight weeks ago, stated Prime Minister Churchill in London on Tuesday.

CANADIANS are asked to give $5,000,000 towards the Red Cross annual campaign. Alberta's quota is $300,000, of which Macleod has set itself to raise $3,000. Reports from the local committee show that many have not yet given, yet from the increased employment as a result of the war it cannot be gain-said that practically everyone can give something. Where there is a will there's a way. Construction of the service flying school has brought a lot of money in wages and general business to Macleod, compared to which $3,000 is a small sum. In return for the security we in Canada enjoy, free from bombing raids and rationing of food such as people over there are experiencing, it is really base ingratitude not to give something. To again quote Mr. Ilesley:

"Remember! We must accomplish by voluntary action more than the enemy can do by compulsion." To you who have not given, the appeal is made to do something—and do it NOW!

THAT old alibi that the Red Cross did little for the soldiers in the last Great War still persist in some people's minds, though its splendid record of service to humanity in peace as in war is an open book, and the administration of its funds cost 5%. Therefore for every dollar given, 95c is expended in relieving suffering and distress. It is easy to find excuses for not giving, but thank God there are sufficient people in Canada to give the five million dollars asked for in this second annual campaign.

IN all forms of government, Federal, Provincial or Municipal, our representatives represent the voice and intelligence, or lack of it, of the masses. At least, nearly always. There are exceptions, for by a splitting of votes by three or more parties in an election campaign, a party may be elected on a minority vote, therefore it cannot be truthfully stated that the elected candidates represent the views of the majority of the people. Again, if there are no important issues in an election campaign, thousands of voters regard the election with indifference, and do not vote. For instance, consider a municipal campaign in a town such as this. Frequently the selection of candidates is left to a few, and even on nomination day candidates have to be begged and cajoled to allow their names to go on the ballot forms. It does not make for the selection of men most fitted for the responsibilities attaching to public office. A Board of Trade or other organization can use its influence towards persuading men of sound judgment and some knowledge of business principles to stand for election, for a town or city looks to its elected representatives for leadership. If citizens or ratepayers as a whole are indifferent to selecting candidates, they have only themselves to blame if indifference reflects itself in the policies of the council. Progress and sound development depend on the active interest people take in their own municipal affairs.

George Burchell Writes The Journal

A letter was received this week from George Burchell, stationed at Petawawa Military Camp, Ont. He writes: "It is about time that I acknowledged your paper which I watch for every week. There are five of us from the Pass, Angus McDonald and myself from Coleman, George Porteous from Hillcrest, Matty Parker and Albert Hovan from Bellevue.

I am enclosing a snap of the Pass boys and they want to see it in The Journal."

Editor's Note: Due to the five men standing too far away from the camera and also because of the heavy shadow it was impossible to reproduce the picture as the features of the men would be almost indistinguishable.

POLICE COURT

An adjournment of a few days was made in the case of Joe Trotz when he appeared before Magistrate Gresham last week, charged with having in his possession a quantity of authorized explosives without having a permit, contrary to the provisions of regulation 15, order in council No. 2903.

Ernie Beart received a newspaper clipping this week from his sister who resides at an east coast town in England. The clipping shows a scene of destruction, his sister's home being a mass of ruins as a result of a Nazi bomb. Luckily all residents in that particular row of houses had been evacuated fifteen weeks before the houses met destruction.

The Importance Of Steam Coal

COAL is a vital necessity for industrial purposes and it must be of a high standard to meet competition of foreign coal and substitutes for coal. It has been the aim of these mines to place on the market the highest grade free from impurities. This can only be done by the use of the most modern cleaning machinery and careful inspection of all coal mined.

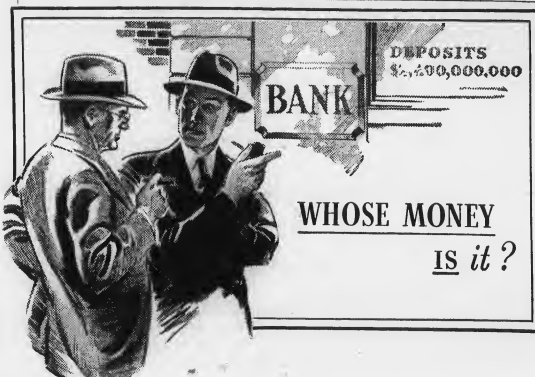

INTERNATIONAL and MCGILLIVRAY COALS have established a nation-wide reputation for efficiency for railroad and industrial use. This has been accomplished by determination to produce only THE BEST.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is a major buyer of International and McGillivray coals and merchants can co-operate in maintaining present working conditions by demanding that their Christmas stocks be shipped by rail.

WHAT money? Why—the money in the banks! The money carefully put away by you and your neighbours in savings accounts. The money you could have spent today but wanted to keep safely against some future need. The businessman's money for use in his normal operations. There are more than 4,846,000 bank deposit accounts, savings and current. Within these two classes the great majority of deposits are small or of moderate amount. But you'd be wrong if you assumed from this, that the rest of the deposits are owned by the few! Quite the contrary! The railways, for instance, have deposits in the chartered banks—and that indirectly includes the whole population of the Dominion. The trade unions have deposits. Millions of policy-holders share in the ownership of insurance companies' deposits. And don't overlook the deposits of wheat pools; farm co-operatives; churches; municipalities and municipal hydro commissions, school districts; school children's penny bank savings deposited with the chartered banks; and commercial and mining corporations with very wide lists of shareholders, large and small, all over Canada. Truly, money on deposit in Canada's chartered banks is owned, in fact, by you and your fellow-Canadians.

[In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, their useful services—safeguarding depositors' funds; facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis of enduring prosperity.]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(The editor is not responsible for opinions expressed in letters to the Press, and reserves the right to reject any communication submitted. Publication must not be taken as an endorsement of opinion or policies.—H.T.H.)

Michel, B. C.
October 28, 1940

Editor, Coleman Journal:

I would like to draw your attention to the article "He Embarked," which appeared in The Journal either last week or the week before. It appeared in the Fernie Free Press on October 25th. I don't know whether you meant this to be a joke or not—it is mostly all sarcasm to me. I do not like it and want an apology in the paper next week. The reason I don't like it is because everyone thinks the soldier is Jim Groucutt. At the time Jim Groucutt got his leave of absence, only two others were with him—Romeo Cimolini and Billy Ball. They did not ask for leave—they were told to go. If the relative was silly enough to spend $30 in liquor that was his tough luck—only no relative of Jim Groucutt's would ever spend that on him.

I would like to know who this relative is. It is quite apparent that this Michel soldier has more guts than the relative. He's not going to sit back and let Hitler and his henchmen dominate him. This may not be the only letter from Michel because the people here are very indignant about it. If you do not give me any satisfaction I'll find someone who will. Yours truly,
MRS. J. GROUCCUT.

Michel, B. C.
October 28, 1940

Editor, Coleman Journal:

Will you please print the following item in answer to the article in your paper, "He Embarked." The people of Michel think it an insult to any soldier to have such an item printed.

Whoever thought of having a laugh at the price of a soldier who had more guts than the one who stays safely at home to make money to spend on good times only to begrudge it when the soldier doesn't go far enough from Canada to please him. Instead of giving them a drink out of Old Man river, perhaps the writer would like a dip in Michel Creek, which is too good for him. If everyone stayed home to spend money such as the relative who spent $30, it would be too bad for Canada and Britain.

Be British! An honest opinion of soldiers' wives, relatives and friends.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Canadian soldiers on duty in Iceland are getting along "quite satisfactory," Defence Minister Ralston told newsmen.

A new order has gone into effect to help Germans make up lost sleep. Hereafter, church bells are to ring only after 1 p.m. following night air raid alarms.

The use of the combine in Canadian agriculture is increasing notably, says Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada. Sales of these harvesting implements rose 97 per cent. last year.

Douglas Aircraft Corporation officials said that United States attack bombers ordered by the Norwegian government are being delivered in Canada. Thirty-six have been ordered with deliveries to be completed this year.

The Scandinavian wireless reported from Stockholm that the Norwegian towns of Harstad had been ordered to post 20 pictures of Hitler in prominent places because young Norwegians had spat at the one picture previously displayed.

A British broadcast picked up at New York by National Broadcasting Company said that 1,800,000 tons in additional shipping because Greece has placed her ships at Britain's disposal.

The lord mayor of London fund for relief of air raid distress now exceeds £1,300,000, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported. The Maharajah of Cwalior, a native Indian state, has sent a recent contribution of £1,600, the BBC said.

Resistance Of Briton

Italians Could Tell Germany Why

People Are Holding Out
"How is England able to resist?" asks a Berlin dispatch to Count Ciano's paper, "Il Telegrafo di Leghorn." "Is it really true that 47,000,000 Britons are 47,000,000 Churchill, all determined to die under the ruins of the British Empire rather than give in?"

The Germans always appear bewildered when they meet stubborn and prolonged resistance. It is not, perhaps, so much because they do not comprehend the never-say-die spirit, as that they genuinely wonder why some foreign people are so reluctant to share the benefits of Teutonic culture. Berlin's surprise at Britain's doggedness is not feigned, but real.

It is curious, however, that such surprise should be expressed in an Italian newspaper. Under all the German laws of war, Italy was thoroughly beaten by the Austro-German armies at Caporetto in the fall of 1917. German wondered then why Rome did not call quits. But the Italians, though beaten, fought on, as the British are doing to-day. They fought on for a year, or until the triumph of Vittorio Veneto and the collapse and capitulation of Austria.

Surely not all Italians have forgotten how it felt, 23 years ago, to refuse to admit defeat, to battle on until defeat was turned to victory. Let those Italians who remember the pride and the glory of that feeling try to explain it to their German allies.—New York Sun.

Was Doubly Valuable

Spy In Rome Hotel Was An Excellent Waiter

A foreign correspondent in Rome became inevitably aware that the waiter who attended to him at his hotel was a spy. The correspondent is broad-minded about spies, but this one made such a nuisance of himself hanging around the table and listening for significant conversation that he finally complained to the hotel manager. The manager wasn't very helpful. "What can I do?" he asked. "I could fire him, but the next spy might be such a good waiter."

Learned Something

"Yes, I was on the Lancaster, when she was sunk at Dunkirk," a British engineer related in New York. "When the ship leaked over, while I was in the water, the only thing I could think of was that after 22 years at sea, I never had seen the inside of a ship's funnel, and this was the first time. It's gray."

All lovely things, they say, meet in loveliness again.

Use For Milkweed

Scientists Have Discovered That It Contains Valuable Element

We are now glad to report that the milkweed has at last decided to throw in its lot with civilization. It is no longer a weed. It is now to become a crop. Scientists at the University of Chicago have discovered that it is just as good as the tropical papaya plant.

We do not know much about the papaya beyond the fact that about half a million pounds of it are imported into the United States annually. It is used to make meat tender. The ingredient in the papaya which does the tenderizing is papain and papain is an enzyme.

The University of Chicago research workers have discovered that the juice of the milkweed contains casein, which works just as well as papain in making meat tender. There are said to be commercial possibilities for the milkweed juice even though the papaya is a richer source of meat tenderizing enzyme, but to realize these possibilities milkweed would have to be cultivated by the field. The commercial possibilities are not believed to be very exciting, however. It will likely be a long time before we shall see deliberately planted fields of milkweed.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Canada Giving Aid

Canadian Red Cross Is Carrying On Splendid Work

At a sub-executive meeting of the Canadian Red Cross Society held on October 16th in Toronto, it was decided that of the 10,000 parcels per week for British and Canadian prisoners of war in Germany, the provision of which the Canadian society promised last month on the request of the British Red Cross, 5,000 be packed in Toronto and 5,000 in Montreal. An expert packer is on the way from Britain, and the work will be done by volunteers.

The British Red Cross has also requested that the Canadian Society provides 50,000 packages, each containing 3,000 international units of tetanus anti-toxin in rubber-stoppered vials, and $10,000 for the purchase of shoes for women and children suffering from air raids in England. The requests will both be filled by the Canadian Red Cross with the funds raised in the recent national campaign. Such expenditures and duties are gladly borne here in aid of the British Red Cross and people.

HOME SERVICE

NO ONE DREAMS YOU MADE THIS SEA SHELL NECKLACE

Easy to Do—Using Macaroni!

So smart you'll feel in this pretty necklace of colorful "sea shells." It has the fragile "tinkly" effect that's the last word in costume jewelry. And who'll guess you made it easily yourself—from macaroni shells!

You first apply a drop of water to the centre of each shell, using a medicine dropper. Then, with a needle, bore a hole through the softened spot—as in our top diagram.

When you've prepared seven shells in this way, cut seven pieces of wire 2½ inches long and twist one end of each wire into a flat spiral ¼ inch in diameter.

Now through each tiny shell hole stick a wire—as shown by the lower diagram. The spiral end of the wire rests on the outside of the shell and the other end fastens to your chain—which, if you wish, you can make easily from copper wire.

After all shells are securely fastened, paint them—outside and in—with enamel in your favorite color. Aqua blue, dusty pink are lovely.

Complete directions for this and other stunning pieces are given in our 32-page booklet. Includes clips, beads, buttonnieres, necklaces, bracelets, pins. Tells how to make raffia and sealing wax flowers.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Costume Jewelry You Can Easily Make" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

Blow For Blow

Says Britain Must Pursue Struggle With Determination

Britain must return "blow for blow with harsh and iron determination," writes Lord Queensborough in "Monthly Message," publication of the Royal Society of St. George.

"Every further breach of international law and civilized practices by the enemy must be ruthlessly countered," Lord Queensborough writes. "Our native traditions of fair play and generosity to an opponent are deeply ingrained in us. To abandon them, even now is hard and distasteful."

"To cling to them in the face of the enemy's open and loudly proclaimed brutality and treachery is to add to our own dangers and offer advantages to the enemy which he will not fail to grasp."

"We no longer have the right to follow our inclinations—in the name of our own life—we must return blow for blow, with harsh and iron determination."

Driving Licenses

Suggestion Made That They Should Be Valid For More Than A Year

A suggestion that the provinces consider issuing driving licenses valid for a period of more than a year was made by J. P. Eickell of Toronto, Ontario Registrar of Motor Vehicles, before the Canadian Good Roads convention at Quebec.

The recommendation was included in the report of the committee on uniform motor vehicles regulations, traffic facilities and supervision, of which Mr. Eickell is chairman.

The recommendation to extend driving license periods was made in view of the amount of detail involved in the annual renewal of licenses, Mr. Eickell said. He noted that some of the United States issued licenses valid for varying periods of years.

Mr. Eickell's report also recommended that as a safety measure highway plans should include provision for parking places where motorists could stop and relax after long periods behind the wheel.

Ear Grafting

Loss Of An Ear Can Be Easily Remedied, Say Surgeons

If an ear is torn off in an automobile accident, the American College of Surgeons was advised, it should be saved because weeks or months later it can be put back on and will make a perfectly good new ear.

The report was made by Dr. H. L. D. Kirkham of Houston, Texas. The ear has to be kept in a preservative, but he said that even if it were found until 24 hours after the accident, it still could be preserved.

Any dead person's ear, if preserved, can be used to make a good ear, he said.

Burmese Use Strategy

Have Way Of Catching Fish Without Actually Killing Them

Alfred Fabre-Luce, in Revue de Paris, says: Buddhist Burmans, who don't believe in killing living creatures, have evolved an ingenious way to catch fish. One day a Burman prince explained to me. Bending over the water, he said: "See that light at the bottom of the river? It's simply a slab of wood, painted white, and placed there by a native fisherman. It glows strangely in the light of the moon, and the fish, frightened, leap into the air—to fall back into the net. It is then possible for the fishermen to assuage their consciences by saying: 'We didn't kill these fish—we simply gathered in the suicides.'"

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 10

THE GOLDEN RULE (Armistice Sunday)

Golden text: As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise. Luke 6:31.
Lesson: Luke 6.
Devotional reading: Matthew 5:43-48.

Explanations and Comments

The Treatment of Enemies, Luke 6:27-29. Jesus now turns from the worldlings upon whom he has been pronouncing woes, to his followers, and counsels them to be ruled by love in their treatment of their enemies. The Greek word for "love" in this text is carefully chosen. It is not demanded that we love our enemies with a natural and spontaneous affection (phileo), but, with a supernatural, Christian love that comes by grace (agapan). The "Expositor's Greek Testament" explains: In the days when Jesus spoke, revenge wreaked upon an enemy was considered noble. How often gloated over the misfortunes of an enemy? He thought himself fortunate he deeded on his rival, and he could say no one had done more good to his friends nor more mischief to his enemies.

Those that hate you, curse you, despitefully use ("the three stages of enmity—feeling, speech, deed"), to them you must do good, must bless them and pray for them.

The Golden Rule, Luke 6:30, 31. By his new words Jesus inculcates the duty of generous giving. To rightly understand them, and similar sayings of Jesus, we must keep in mind that he was wont to use figure of speech which had a definite, but not a literal, meaning. It is not wise to give to every one who asks. If men of wealth carried out his injunction literally, all their money would soon be in the hands of the undeserving.

How to give is explained by the Golden Rule which immediately follows: As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise. Love is to guide one in giving. To give to every beggar would be harmful to him, and it would be vicious and impoverishing to you. Your gifts and your loans are to be suited, not to the asker's wish, but to his welfare. An opportunity to earn money is far better for a man's welfare than a gift of money itself. As Dr. Farrar observes, the spirit of the precept is large-handed but thoughtful charity.

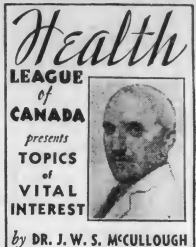

Be Charitable in Judgement and Generous in Giving, Luke 6:37, 38. These are general statements about judging which are not to be taken unqualified. The example of Jesus himself shows when judging and condemning is a duty. See Mt. 18:15; 23:2. Apply the Golden Rule, and judge others as you would that others judge you.

Making A Living

Young Married Couple Had Idea Which Is Proving Successful

A young married couple are overcoming difficulties with aid of a used sedan and salesmanship. They watch the papers for announcements of various outdoor meetings and picnics. In fact, they keep in close touch with all types of entertainments. Soon they are at the spot at the required time; and their sedan has an attractive arrangement of candies, gum, balloons, sandwiches, and late magazines. They have a neat sign on each side of the car, and the back seat is an inviting little store.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

That most of the bread consumed in Canadian cities is capable of considerable improvement in the interest of war-time health and efficiency, is indicated by an article appearing in the current issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal over the signature of E. W. McHenry, Ph.D., of the University of Toronto.

It is, of course, generally known that whole-wheat bread is of greater nutritional value than white bread, but the fact has not made the darker colored loaf popular. Dr. McHenry therefore proposes that the value of white flour be raised by adding wheat germ or yeast of high vitamin content. This can be done without affecting the color of the resultant loaf, he declares.

The special nutritive quality of the whole wheat bread lies in the fact that it retains vitamin and mineral contents which, to a very large extent, are removed by modern milling processes. Vitamin B complex, which is absolutely essential to health, is found in about one third of its original quantity in the course of milling, for instance.

A survey of 100 families of low incomes in Toronto, he says, reveals that even the best feed members fall far below the satisfactory margin in their daily intake of Vitamin B1, a condition which he finds reason to believe is general.

Dr. McHenry repeats that the intake of Vitamin B1 would be increased if people ate whole wheat bread, but since they decline to do so other methods must be found, and experiments have shown that bread containing five per cent. wheat germ has noticeable effect on growth and nutrition.

Life Light

New Floating Torch Will Keep Burning For 15 Hours

Seamen all over the world realize the value, in an emergency, of a life-saving jacket. Now, as a further aid to rescue work at night, a jacket life-light has been approved by the British ministry of shipping.

This life-light floats a red beam above the surface of the water, weighs only a few ounces, and will keep burning for 15 hours. When stowed away in the life-jacket itself—the waterproofed canvas battery being held in the pocket—it is instantly ready for action.

As a precaution against the possibility of the device being misused (to disclose, for example, the position of the ship) the lamp's metal covering cap is sealed. The seal can be broken by a twist of the cap, after which simple preliminary, the life-light, in its case of cedar wood, floats alongside the user to whom it is attached by a lanyard.

It can also be held in the hand, and readily switched on and off, thus permitting the man overboard to signal messages to his rescuers.

A girl stood on the threshold. She wore a long blue coat; there were beads of rain on the shoulders and on the little felt hat. In her hand was a streaming umbrella. Mr. Ellensby had not noticed it was raining.

She was staring at the open suitcase, at the bundles of money, the heaped envelopes. Aileen Rivers had never seen so much money.

"Well! Ellensby's voice was a harsh squeak.

"I tried to find your clerk," she said. "The door was open—"

Open? In his haste to continue his work Ellensby had not closed the outer door—had not even shut the door beyond the balize.

He recognized her.

"You're Stebbings' girl," he said breathlessly. "What do you want?"

She took from her bag a folded envelope. Some leaves of the late Miss Alice Harlow had fallen in, and by some oversight, as Mr. Stebbings found, they had not been included in the legacy. He tried to read the letter; tried hard to put out of his mind the all-important, the vital happening * * * two grave eyes watching through a glass oval * * * watching bundles of money in suitcases, in envelopes, * * *

"Oh," he said blankly. "I see * * * something about lenses. I'll attend to that tomorrow."

"Mr. Harlow knows," she said. "We telephoned to him early this afternoon, and he asked us to notify you and bring the particulars to his house to-night."

At this he jerked up his head. "You're going to Harlow—now?" he stammered.

"There will be time—it is an old man's request; unreasonable—I realize that."

He looked very old and mean and unhappy.

"Is it far?"

He told her the exact position of his house—described the nearest route. What would happen after, he did not know. There would be time to consider that. Something dreadful. To keep her away from Harlow—her lover, perhaps. That was the first consideration. His seats were booked, the cabin reserved; he left in the morning by the early train. Why not by Ostend? These by-thoughts insisted on confusing him.

"Could I telephone to Mr. Stebbings?"

"I'll do that." He was almost jovial. "What you can do, young lady, is to help me pack these two cases. A lot of money, eh? All Harlow's, all Harlow's! A clever man!"

She nodded as she gathered up the bundles of bills.

"Yes—very clever."

"A good fellow?"

"Sure wasn't sure of this; he thought she was dissembling a new affection. Obviously, she was fond of Harlow. Otherwise, since she was a known friend of Jim Carlton she must express her abhorrence. He had escaped a very real danger."

She had forgotten that she had promised to telephone until the car, waiting all this time in the soaking rain, was moving down Kingway.

"I have a phone at my house," he said.

It is true that he had a telephone—a private wire into Mr. Harlow's library. But he was hardly likely to use it.

Crouched up in a corner of the car, the suitcases at his feet, knocking at his knees as the machine slowed or accelerated, he talked about his wife, but thought of the girl by his side. And he reached this conclusion: she was the one person in the world who could betray him. The one person in the world who knew that he had two large suitcases filled with money. It was necessary that he should forget bank manager and Harlow and certain members of the Rata's staff, and so he forgot them. A bit of a girl to stand between him and a wonderful future. Picture galleries, sunlight on striped awnings, great masses of flowers blooming under blue skies, what time fog and rain clouds palled this filthy city, and liquid mud splashed at the windows of the hired car.

They were nearing the house when she dropped the window and leaned out on the driver's side.

"The house is the fourth from the next side road. Stop before the gates; don't go into the drive, and wait for a few minutes before you drive away."

He pushed three notes into the maid's hand, the gun-chamber driver examined them by the light in his instrument board and seemed satisfied.

"Do you mind if we stop at the gates? It is only a little walk up the drive—my wife is so nervous; starts at every sound."

Aileen did not object. When they alighted in the muddy road, she offered to carry one of the cases, and he consented. It was heavier than she expected.

"Harlow's, all Harlow's!" he muttered as he walked through the ugly gates and bent his head to the drive of rain. "One of his jokes."

"What do you mean by 'joke'?" she asked.

"Harlow's jokes * * * difficult * * * explain." The wind tore words out of his speech.

She could see the house; square, lifeless.

"To the left—we go in at the back."

They were following a cinder path that ran snakingly through the bare stems of rose bushes. Ahead of her she saw a queer building of some sort. It was the furnace house of the conservatories, he told her.

"There are two steps down."

Why on earth were they going into a hothouse at this time of night? He answered the question she had not put.

"State * * * lock away * * * cases," he shouted.

The wind had freshened to a gale. A flicker of lightning startled her. Lightning in December was a phenomenon outside her knowledge. Ellensby put down the cases and pulled at a rusty padlock; a door ground open.

"Here," he said, and she went in after him.

He struck a match and lit an inch of candle in a grimly little storm lantern, and she could take stock of the place. It was a brick pit, windowless. The floor was littered with cinders and broken flower pots. On a wooden bench was a heap of mould from which the green shoots of

His heart was beating so violently that he could hardly breathe. Fortunately for her peace of mind, she could not see his face.

Tale Of Two Cities

London More Alive Than Paris In London More Alive Than Paris

London always offered an interesting contrast to Paris. Both were mighty cities, but most visitors thought of the British capital as sedate and of the French capital as gay. London, for all its size, gave the impression of insularity; Paris was cosmopolitan and at home to everybody.

In appearance the two cities also differed completely. London is often spoken of as dingy. It was never that, except in its slum areas. But its skyline and its architecture suggested elegance; its sidewalk cafes advertised leisure; everywhere in its street life there were verve and animation. Nowhere was the contrast more pronounced than in the parks.

Paris was a city of contrasts. In Hyde Park, Kensington Gardens and the Tuilleries they were orderly enough, too, but quick and easy laughter was never absent from the streets of the French that they could learn to be sad.

To-day the contrast between the cities is greater than ever. Areas of London lie in ruins. Paris is practically untouched. The streets of London are pockmarked by bombs cratering the workers' toil to their offices and factories over piles of rubble, and some of the city's noblest monuments are marred or blown to bits. The monuments of Paris, largely dedicated to past victories, are all unscathed.

Death means down casting the skies above Paris are empty and serene. Any one can walk from end to end of Paris with no danger of sudden destruction. London nights are deafening with the roar of warfare which means annihilation for some citizens each hour. Paris sleeps in peace. Yet no one in the world doubts which is the leader city of the two—New York Times.

Might Have Long Wait

The cavalry recruit was instructed to hold his horse for half an hour. Ten minutes later the sergeant-major came along for his mount and found the recruit holding the bit close to the horse's head.

"What are you waiting for?" he roared.

"Until he yawns," answered the recruit.

Slave-Maker Ants

Raids on nests of other ants are made by slave-maker ants. They carry off cocoons of the raided colony and hatch the captives, which then are forced to spend their life gathering food for their captors.

Comet

"Comet" is derived from a word meaning "hairy stars." The first comet whose course was plotted was Halley's, in 17th century.

The United States exported farm equipment valued at $9,555,833 in May, 46 per cent. more than in last year.

For Future Generations

Few People Reap Much Benefit From Constructive Work They Do

"It won't do YOU any good," said the short farmer to the tall farmer. The tall man, beaming with pride, had just swept a brawny arm in the direction of a fifty-acre field of grass. That's what it looked like—just an ordinary, big field of grass. But in that field the tall farmer had planted many thousands of trees. They could not be seen from the lane, but they were there; well rooted and advancing in the shelter of the grass. "No sir," the short man repeated, as if to emphasize his view that his tall friend was wasting his time, "they won't do YOU any good."

"No, perhaps you're right," said the tall farmer, seeming to agree. "By the way," he continued, "how are your apples?"

"Good," said the short farmer happily. "That's a grand orchard—one of the best."

"Who planted it?" asked the tall man.

"Father. Why don't you remember?"

"And did he fence it?" interrupted the tall man.

"Did he build your house, too?"

"What the heck! You know my grandfather built our place—and the barn, too. Say, are you getting soft?"

"Well, maybe," pressed the tall farmer. "But here's the way I figure things. I'm pretty much like you. When I took over this farm 15 years ago, it was a going concern. I've worked hard to keep it that way. But my great-grandfather, my grandfather and then my father put a lot of sweat into the making of this old farm. They cleared the land, built fences, put up buildings, planted the orchard, drilled the well—I figure they put plenty into this place; and I'm getting a big share of the benefits of their slugging. So—well, maybe my sons and grandsons some day will figure I wasn't so stupid when I planted fifty acres in trees."

GEMS OF THOUGHT

HOME

He is the happiest, be he king or peasant, who finds peace in his home.—Goethe.

But every house where Love abides And Friendship is a guest, Is surely home, and home, sweet home.

For there the heart can rest.—Henry van Dyke.

Home is the dearest spot on earth, and it should be the centre, though not the boundary, of the affections.—Mary Baker Eddy.

No genuine observer can decide otherwise than that the homes of a nation are the bulwarks of personal and national safety.—Holland.

The first indication of domestic happiness is the love of one's home.—Montesquieu.

He that doth live at home, and learns to know God and himself, needeth no farther go.—Christopher Harvey.

British Assets

Speaker Sums Up Reasons Why Britain Will Never Be Beaten

La-Commander R. Fletcher, Parliamentary secretary to A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a recent speech gave "a rosary to give the most confirmed pessimist a good night's rest."

In counting British assets he pointed out that first and foremost was the spirit of the people, and then, the example of the King and Queen, the Prime Minister, Lord Beaverbrook and his "merry men."

Others he cited were the quality of British aircraft; courage and skill of her navigators; a supreme navy; the indomitable merchant service; the vast resources of the British Commonwealth; the skill and devotion to duty of shipyard and munition workers; political unity; the fortitude of women in keeping the home machine "tickling over"; the response to the various calls for volunteers.

Above all, he said, closing his speech: "We have a good cause and do not know what it is to be beaten."

Many Women Employees

Two years ago Soviet women took the throats of Russian locomotives; now there are 107,000 women workers on the railways of the nation, and Zinaida Troitskaya, first woman to drive a train in Russia is director of a state railroad system.

Many a youth doesn't think he has a start in life until he acquires an auto that will do 80 miles per.

Exciting Chase

R.A.F. Pilot Gets Heinkel Bomber

After following it Out To Sea

This is the story of a night chase over Britain that ended in victory for the Royal Air Force pilot of a Heinkel bomber.

On a clear night the pilot saw bombs drop near a town in the northwest and a few minutes later among the stars saw one which seemed to be moving. It was a light showing from a Heinkel.

Whether the Nazi pilot knew he was being followed will never be known but he led his pursuer first to the heart of the Midlands and then back up towards the Yorkshire Coast before heading home.

Forty miles out to sea, the Heinkel pilot who had been given "full bat" and at the same time keeping the Heinkel in sight, for at least an hour, told his story. He thought he would have to give up the chase. He was told that as he had gone so far he might as well let off his ammunition with a long shot.

He fired his front guns from about a quarter of a mile and to his great surprise found himself gaining on the Heinkel. He continued to fire, finished his ammunition, and was then able to come up alongside to let his gunner pour in a broadside that sent the Heinkel crashing into the sea.

Comes Into Its Own

Well-Loved Song Was Rejected When First Published

"There'll Always Be An England" was written and composed in March, 1939, by two residents of Manchester. Ross Parker, 25, pianist and lyric writer, wrote the words; Hughie Charles, 33, piano player and former orchestra leader, composed the tune.

When the song first appeared the mood of England was far removed from war and it lay amid the dust with other rejected songs. But with the coming of war, more particularly with national realization of the imminent danger to its life, the song came into its own. To-day it is the universal rallying cry of the Commonwealth which are a melodious debt to these two Mancunians whose co-operative tune child has now almost attained the dignity of a national anthem.

A Real Picnic

When 477 school children from Great Britain went to Australia, they were feted at every port where the ship stopped. At one place the children were taken on a picnic and they consumed 300 oranges, 1,000 apples, 2,000 ice creams and 300 pounds of candy.

A new platform light has been devised and will be fitted to London buses, trams and trolley buses to make it easier to board them in blackouts.

Horned loads are light-colored in daytime, and reflect the sun's rays. In the cool of the desert morning and evening, they turn dark, and absorb the rays.

A piece of soap put into a rat or mouse hole will drive the occupants away in disgust.
